DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 21 and 23 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1, 4, 71, 79 and 80 of U.S. Patent No. 7,072,720. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both sets of claims are directed to obvious variations of a nerve cuff having an electrode and an electrical pulse generator.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

Art Unit: 3762

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 17, 19, 20, 21 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Byers et al (US 4,969,468).

Byers et al disclose a pair of rigid jaws comprising cones 12 and 13 having non-conducting members comprising underlying insulating layer 8. Two electrode arrays 16 and 17 may be disposed on a single nerve 18 to form a sandwich electrode array or combination electrode array. Fig. 15 shows a confronting rigid jaw embodiment. FIG. 12 illustrates means for connection to an electric pulse means comprising a monolithic base structure 33 in which several active electronic devices 34, 35, 36, 37, and 38 are created and on which are created the protuberances 2, for penetrating the body tissue.

Regarding claim 20, the examiner is interpreting the array shown in Fig. 3 to comprise a wire mesh equivalent.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1, 4-16 and 41-53 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 7/2/07 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The argument that an electrode that conforms to the nerve is not an element of the '720 patent is without merit. Claim 4 of the '720 patent is clearly directed toward a cuff device that is an obvious variation of the cuff device of claim 21 in the present application and is capable of insuring an electrode conforms to a nerve.

Fig. 11 shows needles 30, 31 and 32 with a concave portion between each pair of needles that receive a nerve.

Art Unit: 3762

Fig. 7 shows an electrode 14 being positioned in a longitudinal traversing channel of an electrically non-conductive member comprising dielectric 15.

Atop the spacing layer 10 is a mesh screen 11.

In response to applicant's argument that Beyers does not teach that the protuberances/electrodes are compressible, or in a pivotal relationship, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Conclusion
